

Step On Up! Toddler Changing Table

Please read this guide before discarding any item or box.

Toddlers will enjoy the newfound sense of control and independence that the changing table affords them. Plus, you'll enjoy reduced back pain and will never have to bend down again!

The changing table comes partially assembled—there are only a couple of things you need to do to prepare your table. Remove the corrugated board that protects the sliding doors during shipping. Use a Phillips screwdriver and the  $\frac{3}{4}$ " screws to attach the handles to all three doors. (The handles and screws can be found in a polybag taped to the changing mat on top of the unit.)

Attach the stairway door to the door hinges using the  $\frac{3}{4}$ " bolts and lock nuts.

Next, insert the back sliding door by fitting the door into the top groove and then pushing it into place. Do the same with the other sliding door. (Be sure the handles are on opposite ends.)

Finally, remove the changing mat from the plastic bag and place it on the table. Now you're all set!

Using the Pull-Out Stairs

It's simple to pull out the stairs—just use your hand or foot. The stairs slide out easily on metal runners.

The stairs feature a locking mechanism for safety. Pull them out gently until the glides bump into the stops. Lift the front edge of the stairs a little so that the glides roll up and over the stops and then drop down securely into place. Give the stairs a little push to make sure they are locked.

Once the toddler has climbed the stairs, use the straps to securely buckle the child in while you change her diaper.

When you're done using the changing table, lift the stairs up over the locking mechanism and push them into the unit. Now, close the door so curious toddlers can't climb or play on the stairs!

Adult supervision is essential when using the Step On Up! Toddler Changing Table. Never allow toddlers to climb the stairs unsupervised or use the unit as a toy.
